

Table of contents

Preface	5
Introduction: English for teachers and learners	15
English in Norwegian schools	15
Language awareness	17
The linguistic diversity in English classrooms	18
Communication is the main goal	21
What is English?	23
What is “correct” English?	23
Which variety to choose?	24
Learning – and helping to learn – English	25
The content of this book	27
PART 1
VOCABULARY	29
Chapter 1
Learning vocabulary	33
1.1 Learning words in L1	33
1.2 Vocabulary development in L2 and L3	35
1.3 What does it mean to know a word?	36
1.4 Receptive and productive word knowledge	37
1.5 A quick look at how our memory works	38
1.6 Long-term memory and working memory	39
1.7 Deeper learning: Making word learning personally relevant	39
Chapter 2
What is vocabulary?	40
2.1 What is a word?	41

2.2	Word families	41
2.3	Multi-word vocabulary and frequent combinations	43
Chapter 3
The lexical system of English		45
3.1	The origins of English vocabulary	46
3.2	More about transparent words	47
3.3	Words and the world: Denotation and connotation	49
3.4	Word classes: Lexical (content) words and function words	50
3.5	The structure of words: Morphology	52
3.6	Lexical relations	55
3.7	Multiple meanings of words	57
3.8	Figurative meaning	58
3.9	Idioms	59
Chapter 4
Word formation		62
4.1	Creating words from other words: Derivation	62
4.2	Compounding	63
4.3	Conversion	65
4.4	Other word-formation processes	65
Chapter 5
Words at work		67
5.1	Collocations	67
5.2	Discourse markers	70
5.3	Sentence frames	71
5.4	A note about style	72
5.5	Spoken English: Vocabulary of conversation	72
Chapter 6
Vocabulary in the classroom		75
6.1	Learning English vocabulary: The main challenges	76
6.2	Teaching English vocabulary: The main challenges	79
6.3	Teaching principles	80
6.4	Possible tasks in the classroom	83
6.5	The 5 R's	86
6.6	Vocabulary strategies	87
6.7	Curricular aims for vocabulary development	89

PART 2
GRAMMAR	91
Chapter 1
What is grammar?	95
1.1 Grammaring	96
1.2 Word classes	99
1.3 Phrases	101
1.4 Word order patterns	104
Chapter 2
The grammar of nouns	111
2.1 Noun forms	111
2.2 Types of noun	113
2.3 The structure of noun phrases	118
2.4 Types of determiner	122
2.5 Pronouns	128
2.6 The function of noun phrases	133
Chapter 3
The grammar of verbs	134
3.1 Verb forms	135
3.2 Types of verb	137
3.3 The structure of verb phrases	140
3.4 Time and tense	141
3.5 Aspect	145
3.6 Modality	148
3.7 Voice	152
3.8 Various uses of the -ing form	153
3.9 Verb forms after verbs: -ing or infinitive?	154
Chapter 4
The grammar of adjectives	156
4.1 Adjective forms	156
4.2 Types of adjective	157
4.3 The structure of adjective phrases	158
4.4 The function of adjective phrases	158
Chapter 5
The grammar of adverbs	161
5.1 Adverb forms	161

5.2	Types of adverb	162
5.3	The structure of adverb phrases	162
5.4	The function of adverb phrases	163

Chapter 6

The grammar of prepositions	166
6.1 Preposition forms	166
6.2 The structure of prepositional phrases	167
6.3 The function of prepositional phrases	167

Chapter 7

Clauses	169
7.1 The forms of clauses	169
7.2 Types of clauses	169
7.3 The structure of clauses	170
7.4 The function of clauses	173
7.5 Relative clauses	175

Chapter 8

Sentence types	176
8.1 Simple sentences	176
8.2 Compound sentences	177
8.3 Complex sentences	177
8.4 Alternative patterns: A question of focus	178

Chapter 9

From sentences to discourse	181
9.1 Coherence and cohesion	181
9.2 Lexical coherence	182
9.3 Cohesive use of determiners and pronouns	182

Chapter 10

Basic punctuation conventions	183
10.1 The full stop	183
10.2 The comma	184
10.3 The apostrophe	185
10.4 The semi-colon	186
10.5 The hyphen	186
10.6 Inverted commas / Quotation marks	186
10.7 Other punctuation marks	187
10.8 Capitalisation	187

Chapter 11

Grammar in the classroom	189
11.1 Learning English grammar: The main challenges	189
11.2 Teaching principles	191
11.3 Possible tasks in the classroom	193
11.4 Competence aims for English and relevant concepts of grammar	195

PART 3PHONOLOGY AND PRONUNCIATION 197Chapter 1

Pronunciation and the Norwegian classroom	199
1.1 What are the main challenges?	200
1.2 Which English to learn? The question of norms	202

Chapter 2

What is phonology?	204
2.1 Phonology, phonetics, phonemes and allophones	204
2.2 Phonemes and phonemic symbols	205
2.3 How do we produce speech sounds?	207
2.4 The speech organs	208

Chapter 3

The speech sounds / phonemes of English	213
3.1 Phonemes and allophones revisited	213
3.2 The vowels of English	215
3.3 The consonants of English	228

Chapter 4

Stress and rhythm	242
4.1 Sentence stress and rhythm	243
4.2 Weak and strong forms	245
4.3 Regularity of stress	246
4.4 Word stress	247

Chapter 5

Intonation	249
5.1 The musical aspect of English intonation	249
5.2 The communicative aspect of English intonation	253
5.3 The Norwegian roller-coaster transfer	256

Chapter 6

Pronunciation in the classroom	258
6.1 English pronunciation: The main challenges	258
6.2 Principles and possible tasks in the classroom	261

PART 4

VARIETIES OF ENGLISH	267
-----------------------------------	-----

Chapter 1

English in the world	269
-----------------------------------	-----

Chapter 2

British English	272
2.1 British pronunciation	272
2.2 British English grammar and vocabulary	277

Chapter 3

American English	280
3.1 American English pronunciation	280
3.2 American English grammar and vocabulary	282

Chapter 4

English outside the United Kingdom and the United States	285
4.1 Canadian English	285
4.2 Irish English	286
4.3 Australian and New Zealand English	287
4.4 East and West African English	289
4.5 South African English	290
4.6 South Asian English: India and Pakistan	291
4.7 English in South East Asia	293
4.8 Caribbean English	294

Chapter 5

Other varieties of English	297
5.1 Sociolinguistic variation	297
5.2 Formal and informal language	298
5.3 Academic English	299
5.4 Cultural differences	302

Chapter 6
Varieties of English in the classroom	306
References	309
Glossary	311
Index	341